When you're done keep it on your hair until your next wash day.

It's important to keep in mind that hair growth doesn't happen overnight regardless of what products you're using.

There is no standard as far as how often you should use castor oil, but we'd recommend one to two times a week for at least three months, as that's typically how long before you'll see new hair coming in.

JAMAICAN Black Castor Oil

Jamaican Black Castor Oil has been used for centuries to treat many ailments. Contains vitamin E and omega-6 fatty acids, its antibacterial and antifungal properties help reduce dandruff and moisturize dry, irritated scalp. Research shows that applying castor oil just once a month helps stimulate hair growth up to three times the usual rate. It also promotes hair growth in other parts of the body, like the eyebrows and eyelashes. Jamaican black castor oil has many uses. It is a natural hair care oil rich in omega-6 fatty acids, which can moisturize the scalp, prevent hair dryness, promote hair follicle growth, and prevent hair loss. At the same time, it is a good conditioner. Hair toner, can repair damaged hair, reduce dark yellow hair split ends. The fatty acids contained in the oil are essential to the healthy functioning of the skin. These keep the skin hydrated, regulate its natural oil production, help to keep problems such as spots at bay and helps combat signs of aging.
