Introduction:

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is the regulatory, scientific, public health and consumer protection agency responsible for ensuring all human and animal drugs, medical devices, cosmetics, foods, food additives, drugs and medicated feeds for food producing animals, tobacco and radiation emitting devices are safe, and effective.

The Center for Drug Evaluation and Research (CDER) is responsible for regulating prescription drugs, including new drugs, generic drugs, biological products and biosimilars as well as overthe-counter drugs (OTC). CDER's drug regulatory responsibilities include premarket review of new drugs and generic drugs; maintenance of the OTC drug monograph system; monitoring of all marketed drug safety and promotion activities; review, monitoring, and enforcement of drug quality during the entire drug life cycle; and ensuring drug products in the market comply with the law.

The Office of Pharmaceutical Quality (OPQ) oversees and coordinates the overall regulation of human pharmaceutical quality within CDER, including submission review, manufacturing facility assessment, and surveillance of the quality of marketed pharmaceutical products. The Office of Policy for Pharmaceutical Quality (OPPQ) is responsible for developing and clearly communicating science and risk-based policies and standards related to drug product quality, including application review and inspection. OPPQ will examine current policies, establish new policies, and identify research needs to ensure that drug quality policies support the availability of quality medicines for all Americans.

Position Summary:

As Regulatory Counsel, the incumbent assumes primary responsibility for ensuring that regulations and policies developed in the assigned area are consistent with statutory requirements and existing policy; that their need is justified, and that scientific and regulatory decisions have been appropriately documented. The Regulatory Counsel handles highly-complex and difficult assignments of national scope and significance.

Duties/Responsibilities:

- Provides legal/regulatory support to the Office in the development and revision of policies, programs, regulations, and guidance involving the most complex and highest priority matters affecting drug quality
- Reviews policy and other regulatory documents drafted by other Center offices that impact pharmaceutical quality regulation. Evaluates other policies as to impact on drug quality regulation and provides recommendations to harmonize
- Performs legal/regulatory reviews of petitions raising issues that have an industry-wide effect, as well as those that pertain to the marketing status of individual products
- Advises staff on how to comply with procedures and methods involved in implementing new programs, guidance's, and regulations, and in revising existing programs, guidance's and regulations, and on the legal/regulatory sufficiency and procedural adequacy of proposed policy statements and policy initiatives

Equal Employment Opportunity Policy

The United States Government does not discriminate in employment on the basis of race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, political affiliation, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, genetic information, age, membership in an employee organization, retaliation, parental status, military service, or other non-merit factor.

Reasonable Accommodation Policy

Federal agencies must provide reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities where appropriate. Applicants requiring reasonable accommodation for any part of the application process should follow the instructions in the job opportunity announcement. For any part of the remaining hiring process, applicants should contact the hiring agency directly. Determinations on requests for reasonable accommodation will be made on a case-by-case basis.

A reasonable accommodation is any change to a job, the work environment, or the way things are usually done that enables an individual with a disability to apply for a job, perform job duties or receive equal access to job benefits.

Under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, federal agencies must provide reasonable accommodations when:

- An applicant with a disability needs an accommodation to have an equal opportunity to apply for a job
- An employee with a disability needs an accommodation to perform the essential job duties or to gain access to the workplace
- An employee with a disability needs an accommodation to receive equal access to benefits, such as details, training, and office-sponsored events

You can request a reasonable accommodation at any time during the application or hiring process or while on the job. Requests are considered on a case-by-case basis.
